South Downs Learning Trust Records Management Policy

The Trust recognises that by efficiently managing its records, it will be able to comply with its legal and regulatory obligations and to contribute to the effective overall management of the institution. Records provide evidence for protecting the legal rights and interests of the trust and its academies and provide evidence for demonstrating performance and accountability. This document provides the policy framework through which this effective management can be achieved and audited. It covers:

- Scope
- Responsibilities
- Relationships with existing policies

1. Scope of the policy

1.1 This policy applies to all records created, received or maintained by staff of the trust in the course of carrying out its functions.

1.2 Records are defined as all those documents which facilitate the business carried out by the trust and/or academies and which are thereafter retained (for a set period) to provide evidence of its transactions or activities. These records may be created, received or maintained in hard copy or electronically.

1.3 A small percentage of the records of the trust and/or academies will be selected for permanent preservation as part of the institution's archives and for historical research. This should be done in liaison with the County Archives Service.

2. Responsibilities

2.1 The trust has a corporate responsibility to maintain its records and record keeping systems in accordance with the regulatory environment. The person with overall responsibility for this policy is the Executive Headteacher and the relevant Headteacher/Head of School where the records relate to a particular academy within the trust or to a particular student attending an academy within the trust.

2.2 The person responsible for records management in the school will give guidance for good records management practice and will promote compliance with this policy so that information will be retrieved easily, appropriately and in a timely way. They will also monitor compliance with this policy by surveying at least annually to check if records are stored securely and can be accessed appropriately.

2.3 Individual staff and employees must ensure that records for which they are responsible are accurate and are maintained and disposed of in accordance with the trust's records management guidelines.

3. Relationship with existing policies

This policy has been drawn up within the context of:

Data Protection Policy

Freedom of Information Policy and Publication Scheme

Acceptable Use Policy

and with other legislation or regulations (including audit, equal opportunities and ethics) affecting the school.

How to Use the Records Retention Schedule

Locating a Record Series

This retention schedule has been split into sections to reflect the different areas and functions which produce records in a school. Click on each tab at the bottom of the screen to switch between each sheet.

The records in each section are listed under sub-headings, which reflect the general functions and activities that occur within that section. You can use these sub-headings to easily browse the schedule and locate the records associated with each activity.

A record series is a group of records that relate to and inform each other. For example, an employee's application form, references, DBS check, tax form, contract and correspondence relating to their employment are different types of records, but come together as a record series as their personnel file. Grouping records together in this way makes managing them easier, as the individual records can be treated as a whole and in the same way. Retention periods are therefore usually provided for record series, rather than different types of records.

The retention schedule contains the following column headings:

Record Series A basic description of the type of records or file.

Notes on Retention Any statutory provisions, legislation or specific business need that inform how long the records should be kept for.

Retention Period How long the records should be kept for and from what point this should be calculated.

Action What to do once the records reach the end of their retention period.

Personal data? Whether the records contain personal data or not.

Retention periods should be applied regardless of the format or media the records are in. If a record series is made up of paper records, digital files, and information held within databases, these should all be treated in the same way and have the same retention

Applying a Retention Period

Once you have located the record series you want and found its assigned retention period, you will then need to apply this. If the records are out of their retention period, you should carry out the action given in the retention schedule. This may be to destroy/delete the records, transfer them elsewhere, or you may have to review the records to see if their retention period needs to be extended.

WARNING: At the time of writing, the Independent Inquiry Into Child Sexual Abuse (IICSA) is still ongoing. In 2015, the Home Secretary requested that any records “which contain or may contain content pertaining directly or indirectly to the sexual abuse of children or to child protection and care” must not be destroyed until the Inquiry is concluded. It is currently a criminal offence to knowingly destroy such material. If any of the records that are out of their retention period could be considered to be included in this, then you must not destroy/delete them until new instructions are received from the Home Secretary.

Similarly, if the records that have reached the end of their retention period are part of an ongoing enquiry, investigation, claim, Subject Access Request (SAR), FOI request, or legal proceedings, these should not be destroyed/deleted until this has been concluded and the case is closed.

Before destroying records listed in the retention schedule, you should get this signed off/agreed by the relevant person. This may be the Headteacher, School Business Manager, IT Manager, or the creator of the records for example.

If the records contain personal data, sensitive or confidential information, you should make sure these are securely destroyed. For paper records this means shredding them before throwing them away. For digital records, you should speak to your IT Manager for advice on how to do this (clicking delete does not necessarily mean the record is gone, as it may just have moved location or still be recoverable).

You should keep a record of what you have destroyed/deleted and when. If your school has a destruction log or schedule you should ensure the records you are destroying/deleting are recorded on it.
